

For Immediate Release

2009

Germantown, MD - Practical Aspects of Conducting Clinical Trials in India

In Dr. Mukesh Kumar's article in the February edition of Focus, the official journal of RAPS, entitled "Practical Aspects of Conducting Clinical Trials in India", he reviews the pros and cons of outsourcing to India and presents an 'insiders' perspective on what it takes to successfully utilize India as part of your clinical development strategy.

In Dr. Kumar's words, "There are definite challenges to address with India, but depending on the product and indication, and the product's stage of development, India can provide significant advantages to your development program."

Dr. Kumar is Sr. Director of Regulatory Affairs and Quality Assurance at Amarex Clinical Research in Germantown MD.